Version 1.8.5

About this deck

- Film and TV quotes, and internet memes, to drop into presentations and training. One entry per scene, in film order then scene order. The bold part is the bit to use
- Checked: the transcript, script or subtitles the wording was checked against. Check: anything I could not confirm
- Time: where the quote starts and ends in the film, from the subtitle file. It starts 2 seconds early, as subtitles are never quite in sync
- Stills: grab your own, or search imgflip and Know Your Meme. Stills and clips are copyrighted: keep them to teaching use, and credit each one on a Media used slide
- Getting around: → for the next topic, ↓ for the entries in it. Next and back step over the contents; the contents button, bottom left, opens them. Type a number and press Enter to jump to that topic
- Top right: the padlock and the pen. Locked, the mouse changes slides; unlocked, it selects and copies text, and the slides stay put. The pen (or D) draws on the slide; press it again, or Esc, to stop. Each slide keeps its drawings until the page is reloaded
- Version 1.8.5 is year.tenth.day: the year (1 is 2026), which tenth of the year it is (0 to 9), and how many days in that tenth have had changes. ARJ (Apocalypse Reveal-js), the scripts behind the slides, is numbered the same way. tools/version.py works them out
- index.html shows this file, memes.md, as slides

Questions?

- Meme page: Know Your Meme 🔗
- Who: Tumblr, first in the Sherlock fandom (28 May 2015), and all over the site by late 2017. Said after a long, confident point that nobody asked for
- Use it for: the last slide, before the questions. Sources, notes and the picture credits are below ↓

Sources

- IMDb IDs: taken from Wikidata (property P345) on 29 and 30 October 2026, not guessed. Episode links only where Wikidata had one
- Meme pages: each Know Your Meme link was checked to exist on the same day
- Scripts: chakoteya.net for Star Trek, Wikiquote, and subtitle scripts on springfieldspringfield.co.uk, which don't name speakers. IMDb itself blocks automated reading
- Quotes: entries with Checked: were compared word for word with a transcript, Wikiquote or a subtitle script on 30 October 2026. The rest are from memory, and lines marked Check could not be confirmed
- Times: from the subtitle files (.srt) in C:\Library\Subtitles, by `tools/srt_times.py`. TV episodes have none yet, as there are no episode subtitle files
- Already used in the decks: Drakeposting, distracted boyfriend, galaxy brain, this is fine. Sources in src/img/meme/readme.md
- Topic pictures: credits on Media used, below, and in src/img/topics/readme.md

- Copyright: this deck © 2026 Mark Crowe. Film and TV quotes, characters, stills, logos and all other trademarks belong to their respective owners, and are quoted here for teaching and comment. reveal.js © Hakim El Hattab, MIT licence
- Link icons: each website's own icon (favicon), saved in src/img/favicons/. Four styles to compare, a different one on each topic in turn: icon before the link, icon after it, a plain link icon after it, and the icon in place of the label ("IMDb:"). Add `?links=favicon-before`, `favicon-after`, `link-icon` or `favicon-label` to the address to see one style everywhere
- To print: download the PDF, every slide ready for paper; the PDF button on the first slide is the same file. To make your own from this version: open the print version, print it, and choose Save as PDF
